FOREWORD

If this annual preserves one beautiful memory, recalls one single friendship, lights one face with a smile, or fills one heart with happy tears, we shall know that our efforts have not been in vain.

The hands you see here and in this book represent those who have inspired and led us and those who have followed them. So as the years pass and our lives grow full, we may turn these pages and recall the pleasant activities of 1962.

DEDICATION

Without the help and guidance that our parents have given to us, many of our hopes and dreams would not have materialized. Life has held many adventures and trials which we have had to overcome. Through their leadership and understanding we have been able to meet them in readiness. They have impressed upon us the value of character, love, and temperance - these we will carry with us always.

Because of these things and others that we cannot express in words, we, the Senior Class, dedicate this 1962 Picohi to our parents.

JUNIOR PLAY — THE DAFFY DILLS

Maybe he done got the heaves!

Rod said married - not buried.

Waiting for curtain call.

Arnica waits for her cue.

Mrs. Duffy checks lines.

Arnica, get up!
You look like a silly ostrich.

You shan't touch the precious darlings.

I'm just an old woman not fit for anything.
